Modern Slavery Act Report

(Fiscal Year 2024)

Introduction

The Fighting Against Forced Labour and Child Labour in Supply Chains Act (the “Act”) requires that businesses state actions they have taken during the previous fiscal year to prevent and reduce the risk of forced labour or child labour within their operations and supply chain. This is a report for PETM Canada Corporation, Nova Scotia business number 3003300, and its parent company, PetSmart LLC (collectively, “PetSmart”), which have an obligation to publish a report under the Act. It refers to steps taken by PetSmart during its 2024 fiscal year, from January 29, 2024, through February 2, 2025.

At PetSmart, our mission is to help everyone experience more joy with pets. Our vision to be the favorite pet retailer impacts everything we do for our customers, the way we support our associates and how we give back to our communities.

We recognize our responsibility to respect and protect the human rights of all people who support and intersect with our business. We earn our reputation as the trusted partner to pet parents and pets by doing what’s right and leading with integrity. As responsible stewards of the PetSmart brand, we aim to ensure ethical and transparent practices through strong corporate policies and governance.

A cross-functional team of legal, quality and sourcing associates evaluate PetSmart’s legal and regulatory compliance risks within our supply chain, guides the development and execution of risk mitigation efforts, and promotes adherence to our Code of Ethics and Integrity, our Supplier Code of Conduct and the law. This team reports on its work to PetSmart’s compliance committee. In 2024, the team refreshed its onboarding process and documentation to align with evolving regulations and to support the continued diversification of our supply chain.

Our Code of Ethics & Integrity outlines expectations for how we do business and work together, as well as the ethical and legal responsibilities that we share. Our Code also includes expectations and commitments related to product quality and safety, respect for human rights and the environment, and supply chain responsibility.

Our Supplier Code of Conduct sets forth specific requirements for suppliers across human rights, product quality, animal welfare, and compliance with applicable laws. PetSmart respects and protects human rights wherever we operate and throughout our supply chain, following all applicable labour and employment laws, including those that govern working hours, fair wages, safety and health. We select and work only with business partners who are also committed to these principles.

To ensure we’re continuing to meet our high standards of ethical sourcing, we regularly collaborate with peers and experts on best practices, including through the Retail Industry Leaders Association’s Responsible Sourcing Committee and the Joint Forced Labor Working Group, which is composed of supply chain and sustainability professionals.

Steps taken to prevent and reduce the risk of forced labour or child labour

In fiscal year 2024, PetSmart took the following steps to prevent and reduce the risk of forced labour or child labour used at any step of the production of its proprietary brand goods in Canada or elsewhere.

Governance and Training

As the leading omni-channel pet retailer in North America, PetSmart is committed to the highest standards of ethical conduct and business integrity. This commitment includes offering safe products and services to customers and pets, making responsible decisions in how we manage our business, and creating a positive impact for our customers, our associates, pets and the communities where we live and work. We also strive to positively influence ethics and integrity in our supply chain, as stated in our Supplier Code of Conduct. PetSmart requires its proprietary brand suppliers to act in accordance with this Supplier Code of Conduct and for all suppliers to act in full compliance with all applicable laws and regulations. Suppliers are responsible for ensuring that they and their employees, workers, representatives, agents and subcontractors comply with these obligations.

In 2022, we revamped our supplier education program to include robust training for new suppliers and ongoing resources and support for all suppliers in striving for continuous improvement.

In addition, our Code of Ethics & Integrity outlines expectations for how we do business and work together, as well as the ethical and legal responsibilities that we share. All new hires review the Code along with other key company policies and are provided other training and compliance reminders based on their role. Our leaders are encouraged to model ethical behavior by maintaining an “open door” environment and encouraging associates to ask questions and report concerns, with resources that include an ethics reporting line, CareSmart, which allows associates and business partners to make anonymous reports through an independent third party.

Supply Chain Audits and Human Rights Assessments

PetSmart regularly audits and monitors its suppliers and has worked to develop grievance mechanisms, as well as procedures to track performance in addressing forced labour and/or child labour.

PetSmart works with a third-party provider to pre-screen all proprietary brand suppliers prior to awarding business and on a regular cadence thereafter. This screening process assesses risk based on several factors including, but not limited to, location, size, annual business, and product type. We also reserve the right to conduct random visits to facilities across the globe and promptly address any discovered instances of non-conformance. The program we follow is intended to educate suppliers to proactively prevent forced/child labour issues in their operations. We continue to see the results of training and deepened engagement with our suppliers. We report on our actions and efforts aimed at continuous improvement annually in our Corporate Social Responsibility Report. You can access our annual report here.

PetSmart conducts additional due diligence on suppliers and their partner facilities to ensure that raw materials are not being sourced from areas known to have problems with forced or child labour.

We require suppliers to have policies and procedures in place for identifying and prohibiting the use of forced labour and/or child labour in their activities and supply chains. In addition, we gather information to ensure that all workers are recruited voluntarily.

PetSmart’s national brand product suppliers have a direct relationship with their suppliers and are themselves directly responsible for compliance with all applicable laws, including those related to forced labour in their supply chains. If PetSmart learns of a failure with one of our national brand suppliers, PetSmart will promptly review the failure with the supplier to determine appropriate corrective action, up to and including termination if the supplier cannot meet our requirements.

Tracking and Monitoring

PetSmart has policies to mitigate the risk when using high-risk materials in PetSmart proprietary brand products, including working with a third-party provider to conduct social compliance audits of our direct sourcing suppliers. For certain materials that are more frequently associated with forced labour concerns in the global supply chain, such as cotton, polyvinyl chloride (“PVC”) and aluminum, we conduct additional due diligence, including but not limited to supply chain mapping to the raw-material level.

PetSmart policies and due diligence processes in relation to forced labour and child labour

PetSmart is committed to respecting and protecting human rights. Suppliers play a key role in helping us manage our global supply chain in a socially responsible manner. PetSmart’s Supplier Code of Conduct specifically requires the following of each of its suppliers:

Prevention of Underage Labour. Suppliers will employ workers who are at least 15 years of age or the applicable required minimum age in the relevant jurisdiction, whichever is higher. Suppliers will maintain objective procedures for accurately verifying the age of workers and job applicants.

Juvenile Workers Protections. Suppliers will adhere to the principles set out in the International Labour Organization Minimum Age Convention No. 138 if they employ workers older than the applicable legal minimum age but younger than 18, including preventing such workers from performing work that might jeopardize their health, safety, or morals.

Voluntary Labour. All labour must be voluntary. Suppliers will not use forced, bonded (including debt bondage), indentured, or prison labour. Suppliers will not engage or support slavery or human trafficking and will comply with all applicable laws on human trafficking and slavery. Workers must be allowed to maintain control over their identity documents and suppliers shall ensure that no recruitment or other fees are required to be paid by workers. Workers shall have the right to freedom of movement without excess restrictions on entering and exiting facilities and workers must be able to voluntarily end their employment without restrictions, e.g., excessive notice periods or fines for termination of their contract.

Working Hours. Suppliers will comply with all applicable laws with respect to working hours and days of rest and, in any event, shall ensure that working hours do not exceed 60 hours per week, whether or not allowed by local law, except in emergency or other exceptional circumstances. Suppliers must also ensure that workers are allowed at least one day off in every seven-day working period. All overtime must be voluntary, and all working hours are required to be documented and monitored accurately.

Compensation. Suppliers' workers should be paid a fair wage commensurate with prevailing industry standards. Workers' wages, overtime and benefits should meet or exceed legal standards or collective agreements, whichever are higher.

Freedom of Associations. Suppliers must respect the right of their workers to freely choose whether or not to join associations, organizations and trade unions, and to bargain collectively, as provided by local law or regulation.

Health and Safety. Suppliers must provide their workers with a workplace that meets applicable health and safety standards and supports accident prevention for all personnel. Suppliers must identify and manage occupational health and safety hazards through a combination of hazard elimination and engineering and administrative controls.

Antidiscrimination. Suppliers will promote a workplace that is free of discrimination and will not discriminate against any worker based on age, disability, ethnic origin, national origin, gender, marital status, physical appearance, pregnancy, race, religion, sexual orientation, or union association, in hiring and other employment practices.

Anti-harassment. Suppliers will promote a workplace that is free of harassment and will not threaten workers or subject them to harsh or inhumane treatment, including verbal abuse, psychological harassment or sexual harassment.

PetSmart requires each international supplier of proprietary brand products to provide a signed statement with each shipment of products certifying that no forced or indentured labor, child labor, slave or human trafficked labor, or prison labor was used in the production or acquisition of the products or their materials. In addition, PetSmart identifies and assesses adverse impacts in operations, supply chains and business relationships, then acts to mitigate adverse impact and track implementation and results.

Risk of forced labour or child labour being used and the steps we have taken to assess and manage that risk

At PetSmart, we have thoughtfully evaluated our global supply chain and the industries in which we operate that may present a risk of forced labour, migrant labour, outsourced labour or child labour, and are committed to the continual identification of emerging risks while mitigating current risks. For example, where possible, we avoid selling or importing products that incorporate high risk materials, minimize the use of suppliers or facilities that are in regions known to have recurrent issues with forced or child labour or that source raw materials from such areas, and encourage responsible manufacturing practices by our suppliers. PetSmart does not knowingly engage with suppliers that utilize forced/child labour.

Remediation of any forced labour or child labour

During 2024, PetSmart did not identify any instances of forced labour or child labour in our activities or supply chains.

PetSmart has a Critical-Ethical Incident process that is implemented when there are critical violations including, but not limited to, forced and child labour. PetSmart may be notified of a Critical-Ethical Incident in several ways, including but not limited to the following: notification through PetSmart's third-party auditing platform, a submission to our anonymous hotline administered by an independent third-party, a discovery during an audit of a supplier's facilities, a media inquiry or a customer complaint. PetSmart will assess the notification, loop in internal stakeholders where appropriate, communicate with the supplier regarding the issues that need to be addressed, and finally, determine whether to continue working with the supplier and if so, on what terms.

Remediation of loss of income to the most vulnerable families that results from any measure taken to eliminate the use of forced labour or child labour in its activities and supply chains

PetSmart takes a proactive approach when selecting and interacting with suppliers and has not identified any loss of income to vulnerable families resulting from measures taken to eliminate the use of forced labour or child labour in our activities and supply chains.

Training provided to employees on forced labour and child labour

PetSmart requires periodic mandatory Human Rights training for associates making contracting or purchasing decisions to promote awareness, identify key risks and support adherence to internal and external reporting requirements.

In addition, PetSmart provides a copy of our Social Responsibility Program Manual to suppliers prior to first production and conducts an initial audit. This sets baseline expectations for the suppliers to get familiar with the standards set forth in the Supplier Code of Conduct. The Code of Conduct and training include a detailed explanation of PetSmart's position on human rights, specify that involuntary labour (e.g., forced labour and child labour) is not tolerated at PetSmart, and instruct suppliers and associates on what to do if they become aware of human rights issues.

Where employees work directly with suppliers, they are instructed to familiarize themselves with the Supplier Code of Conduct, and to ensure suppliers understand what is expected of them under that Code.

Effectiveness assessments to ensure that forced labour and child labour are not being used in our business and supply chains

To reduce and prevent the risk of forced and child labour within our operations and supply chains, we assess the effectiveness of our actions to continuously improve our program by:

- Conducting risk assessments which consider changes in our business, the global marketplace, and new data and information available to us, including information from facility audits, reporting channels and other third-party data sources.
- Reviewing and updating our policies and procedures related to forced labour and child labour as needed.
- Working with our proprietary brand suppliers to measure the effectiveness of their actions to address forced labour and child labour, including by tracking relevant performance indicators.
